

When Seeing the Fair

It will be well worth your while to inspect the Ideal

Butter Separator and Aerator

a new invention which will produce a maximum quantity of pure butter from sweet or sour milk and cream in five or ten minutes. Cheap, simple, efficient. Not a churn nor a cream separator, simply a Butter Separator. Can be seen in operation on the Fair grounds on Fair day.

Another article that merits inspection is the

Round Oak Chief Steel Range

on exhibition at our store on Railway Street

AROUND THE TOWN

Corp. Tucker, R.N.W.M.P., of Carbon, was a visitor to town on Tuesday.

J. A. Ruby returned from Banff on Wednesday night much improved in health.

FOUND—Pair of child's gauntlets. Owner can have same by calling at PIONEER office.

Geo. Peters has this week moved into the residence at the west end of Osler street from their former home at the north end.

Mrs. Hyslop, provincial organizer of the W.C.T.U., paid Didsbury a visit on Sunday last and conducted services at the Methodist church.

Miss Mae Dickinson (soprano) of Toronto and Miss Helen Badgley (elocutionist) of Boston are engaged to give a concert in the Evangelical church on Nov. 30.

The union thanksgiving service that has been held for three years past will this year be held in the Evangelical church at 8 p.m. on Thanksgiving Day, Oct. 31st. Good music will be furnished.

Rev. H. Gratz will preach Sunday night in the Presbyterian church. The solo "A Clean Heart," will be sung by Miss Byam. Pastor Ferguson will visit the Three Hills district in the interests of home mission work.

D. S. Shantz sold eight bushels of fall wheat, four of Genesee Giant and four of Golden Giant, which was in the Alberta exhibit at the eastern fairs, to a party at Allentown, Pa. He has also had enquiries for seed wheat from Batavia, N.Y.

Our local baker, in sympathy with other bakers in the province, has reduced the weight of his bread to correspond with the increase in the price of flour. This is done as it is much more convenient than to raise the price of bread two cents a loaf.

THANKSGIVING SUPPER—The Ladies' Guild of the Church of England are giving a fowl supper on Thanksgiving evening in Hembling's Hall. An informal concert will be given by talent from Carstairs and Didsbury. Supper served from 5.30 to 7.30. Admission 35c.

The mounted police are after Sam Bellamy of the Ghost Pine on the charge of stealing cattle. Several hides were dug up from under the stable floors which bore the brand of a different owner than Mr. Bellamy. He is also accused of branding calves with his own brand before they were weaned, said calves also belonging to another party. He has left for parts unknown.

The class that meets each Tuesday evening in the Presbyterian church for the study of the religious and problems of India is growing in attendance and interest. Tuesday evening Miss Nichol read a very carefully prepared paper which gave a summary of the various religions and modes of worship. Solos rendered by Miss Sick and Miss Byam were much appreciated. Next Tuesday evening Mrs. Denny will deal with the life of Buddha—the life treated by Sir Edwin Arnold under the title "The Light of Asia." All are cordially invited to attend.

C. Hiebert, M.P.P., paid a visit to Calgary on Tuesday.

NOTICE—The sale which was to be held by J. W. Black on Nov. 1 is cancelled.

John Stockfish of Preston, Ont., was the guest of Dr. and Miss Lackner last week.

John Liesemer's new block is completed and "George the restaurant man" has moved into one of the large stores.

The Church of England have engaged the celebrated Kenney-Harvey entertainers for a concert in the opera house on Nov. 21st.

Rev. Dr. Herdman, president of the Presbyterian Home Mission Board of Alberta, assisted at the services in the Presbyterian church last Sunday.

Archie Tewlesy is giving a ball at Carstairs on Thanksgiving Day, Oct. 31st, which should attract a large number of Didsbury people. Music will be furnished by H. S. Craig and A. White.

P. Pallesen, manager for Pallen Bros. Dairy Co., Calgary, was in town this week looking after a supply of milk and cream for his company, and is offering good prices for same. It will pay you to correspond with them at once.

Rev. H. Smith of Olde conducted the harvest thanksgiving service in the English Church on Sunday evening. The church was appropriately decorated. Mr. T. Dahl's solo "Hold thou my hand," was a feature of the service.

Monday was a cattle shipping day in Didsbury about twelve carloads being shipped. Most of the cattle had been bought by N. Weiker for P. Burns, while the balance belonged to J. Friesen and A. Evans. Mr. Friesen was shipping his stock to Port Moody.

At the annual meeting of the Didsbury Liberal Association on Tuesday, C. L. Peterson was elected president, and J. E. Liesemer, secretary, for the ensuing year. A. R. Ruth, J. V. Berscht, M. Clemens and F. Krampien were appointed a special committee to increase the membership, which was placed at $1. John E. Liesemer and Sam Witwer were appointed delegates to the Calgary convention on the 23rd.

A well-filled house greeted the "Kitties Band" on Thursday afternoon, and judging by the applause and encores which they received the entire audience must have turned Scotch for the occasion. It is impossible to single out any one number on the programme as the best because the whole concert was one which gave entire satisfaction to the large audience. Mayor Sexsmith proclaimed Thursday afternoon a civic holiday in honor of the occasion.

Test of Butter Separator.

J. A. MacCallough came in from Calgary as advertised and gave a demonstration of the working of the Butter Separator in W. H. Smith & Co.'s store Thursday morning at 11 p.m. There were a large number of people present, including Mr. Hunter of the creamery. Milk that was procured of Wednesday night's milking was put in the separator and in five minutes the butter was forming, and in ten minutes the machine was stopped—just five minutes quicker than the makers claim. The butter was of good quality and a good quantity from the amount of fresh milk used. Mr. MacCallough claimed that a large quantity of butter would be secured by having the milk a little older. However the separator made good its claim and is just what is required for small dairymen.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism. Not a remedy that will alleviate the distressed limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn long growths back to flesh again. That is impossible, but I can now surely kill the pains and cause of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—where Rheumatism is the City of Rheumatism—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, a rheumatic remedy is merely a placebo. These modern-day remedies, which cure all curable cases of this heinous, much dreaded disease. Parliament Summoned.

The Dominion Parliament has been summoned to meet on November 23rd, a proclamation to this effect appearing in a special issue of the Gazette of Tuesday. This will be the fourth session of the tenth parliament of the Dominion, and the life of a parliament is generally four years, although it can last for five.

The session promises to be a long one. It is expected an appeal will be made to the people before another session commences and the opposition will endeavor to make all the political capital that it possibly can before prorogation takes place, while the government will have to oblige with all the information demanded by their opponents so that the public will be thoroughly informed on both sides of any question that may be a pertinent issue in the coming campaign.

A Mistake.

The council meeting on Monday night was, to say the least, a most exciting one for a time, the cause being Councillor Maley's motion to build a sidewalk on east Railway Street for the accommodation of the residents of Lacknerville.

As we have said before, we think that the people of this section of the town are entitled to the sidewalk since the C.P.R. cut them off from any connection with the town by closing the crossing, as it certainly is a disgrace to expect ladies and children to cross the bad mud hole that exists from the west side of Railway street over the tracks, which is the only way they can get into town.

While the financial situation of the town may not be in very good shape just at present we think that if the council could see its way clear to give these people a two-plank sidewalk until they could build a four-foot it would perhaps overcome the difficulty.

On account of the council being unable to build this sidewalk at present Councillor Maley handed in his resignation which we think was a little too precipitate in face of the fact that a motion was immediately passed that the sidewalk be built just as soon as the necessary funds were available, which pledged the council to do this before any more improvements were undertaken.

If the $1,000 debenture had been sold this sidewalk would have been built. The work that is already in hand, such as finishing the grading and fixing Railway Street, will take up the remaining funds that the council have in hand.

Possible Candidates.

With the possibility of a Dominion general election as early even as March the daily papers are already speculating on possible candidates for both parties. The next election will provide Alberta with seven representatives at Ottawa, Didsbury being situated in the new riding of Red Deer, and not Calgary as in the past.

According to the Edmonton News there is a strong probability of the Conservative candidate being a Red Deer man, in the person of George F. Root. Speaking on the matter the News says:

"At the Borden meeting in Red Deer G. F. Root was referred to as the prospective Conservative candidate in that constituency. If he is given the nomination he will make things interesting for the government nominee. Red Deer is the closest constituency in the province and will see a battle royal in any case. Mr. Root is one of the many farmers of ability and experience in public affairs who have come into Alberta from the United States during recent years and is in every respect well fitted to take his place in parliament. The Conservatives would be fortunate in securing such a candidate."

For a Liberal standard bearer the Calgary News has a quartette of possibilities, the favorite being Dr. Clark of Olds. Here's the News' view:

"By the way, I hear that the Liberals in the Red Deer federal constituency are more inclined towards the eloquent and able Dr. Clark of Olds as their candidate than any other person so far mentioned. The doctor is unquestionably one of the best informed and ablest political speakers in the west. His knowledge of affairs is not confined to Canada, for it will be remembered that the Liberal party in Great Britain considered him an able enough man to do campaigning for it in some of the most important constituencies of England in the last general election there. The names of John T. Moore, M.P.P., Red Deer, G. W. Smith, who came within one vote of securing the Liberal nomination against Dr. McIntyre at the Strathcona bye-election, and Mr. Reid of Ponoka, a native of the United States, but now a Red Deer Canadian, are also talked about as probable Liberal standard bearers."

Better This Year Than Ever

Any person who has read the Family Herald and Weekly Star for a few years back would wonder how it could be improved from year to year. Well every one will admit that during the past twelve months there has been a wonderful improvement and the Family Herald and Weekly Star is today a bigger value than ever before. Newspaper, Magazine and Agriculture Journal all combined, it is certainly a unique publication. Any person who does not know the Family Herald and Weekly Star should give it a trial for 1908. How Dolly Became an Idol

EDITH had long wished for a doll that could speak. When Christmas came and a queer-looking box was left behind by Santa Claus she felt very sorry, indeed. But she wasn't sorry any longer when, after taking out the doll under a wrapper, she found the prettiest doll she ever saw. And oh! she could talk. Yes, she said "Mamma" and "Papa" as plain as plain could be.

Dolly was named Susanne, because Edith once had a little dog by that name and she loved her very much. Like Mary and her lamb, wherever Edith went Dolly was sure to go. Never did Edith tire of her, and although Susanne didn't say so exactly in words, she seemed to like her new mistress greatly. Not long ago Brother Jack and Edith walked down by the brook. Jack was poking in the water with a stick to see if he could find any "minnies," when a big box came floating down stream.

"Oh, it's give dolly a ride," cried he. So they put Susanne in the box, and after tying a long string to one end, set it drifting where the brook was widest. Fine fun they were having, too, when, and to say the cord broke!

Jack and Edith ran along the stream, but there was no way to get dolly to dolly, anyway," he muttered to himself. On and on sailed the box. From one stream it was carried to another, from one river to another, until it reached the sea. One day it floated upon a long beach thousands of miles from where it had started.

Along came a horrible cannibal. Soon

FOUND BY A CANNIBAL.

he picked the box. Picking up poor Susanne he handled her so roughly that Edith would certainly have scolded him had she seen it. Just then he pressed dolly, so that she cried loudly "Papa! Mamma!"

You should have seen that big savage drop dolly and scamper away! When he saw that nothing happened, however, he came back, and spent quite a long time hearing dolly talk.

Then he took her in his arms to the chief of the cannibals, who listened in wonder to the queer doll.

THE OLD IDOL THROWN AWAY

"Um! It's a god!" he said. Then he cried:

"Take away the old idol! We have now a greater god. Let every one bow down before the new god!"

So dolly became the idol of the cannibals, and she grew so proud she thought that you would scarcely have known her. But then she wasn't an ordinary doll.

THEY BOWED TO THE MONKEY

EVERYBODY in the city bowed to the marquis. Happy was he who received a nod in return, for the marquis, mind you, was a very great man.

Quite often the marquis took an airing in his sedan chair, borne by sturdy carriers. When, however, the carriers of the chair were drawn slightly, they hoped there might be a chance of his observing them. The carriers passing in front of a company of soldiers on parade, the company saluted.

Judge of the astonishment and humiliation of every one when just then the door opened and out leaped a monkey. The marquis had sent his pet monkey out to get the air.

CLOTHES

ONCE upon a time a certain great minister of state wrote to the mayor of a small city that special matters of importance in that district needed his personal attention, and told the mayor at what time to expect his arrival.

The city arranged a great reception for the minister. A host of soldiers were to play, all the school children were to sing, and rector flowers before him, and the mayor, representing the town's most prominent citizens, was to read a resolution of welcome.

A magnificent coach finally drove up, accompanied by the minister's staff. Out of the coach stepped two persons—one a dapper gentleman in a suit of uniform and the other a mild-looking old man, who looked of little importance.

The mayor immediately advanced and shook the hand of him of the fine uniform, and then directed his attention of welcome toward him. Thereupon the mild-looking old man stepped forward, insisting that he was the minister, and that the other person was his servant.

The mayor and the rest of the crowd laughed in amusement. The old man must be crazy," said the minister, in disgust, leaping into his carriage and driving away, leaving the mayor's attendant valet to receive the homage of the city.

IT'S MORE fun gain' barfroot than go out to play. I know.

There ain't no other thing so much fun as barfroot. I know.

Gettin' in her way.

An' when I'm out to play,

I say: "Kin' I go out to play?"

I say: "Kin' I go out to play?"

En she says: "Oh, run on, play!"

En I always wonder howler, when I'm out to play, how I can get in her way.

It's fun gain' barfroot when yer play-in any name—

"Gimme barfroot," could be noisy an' in-

Unless they had their shoes off when they crept up in the night.

An' folks can't know they're comin' till they get up, close in sight.

I'm in surely gain' barfroot every day when I get out.

An' haven't got a chance to say I'll catch my death o' cold!

An' yer yer gain' barfroot, yer want it go out to play.

I can't stretch out an' dig yer heels in

HOW HETTY FOUND ROVER

HETTY was a great big fellow with a rough, shaggy coat that was so nice to lay your head against when you were tired from a long romp. He knew just what you said. You always went to Rover when you felt cross or out of sorts. He would look at you with those big, honest eyes in such a sorry way. Then, after you put your arms around his neck, you felt much better. Every one loved Rover, but no one quite as much as Hetty. They had always been chums, you know.

ROVER BEFORE BEING STOLEN.

Last summer the apples camped near the town. One of their bad men threw a bag over Rover's head and put him in a wagon and drove away with him. He could do so many things and was so strong that they wanted him for a watchdog. He was quick and clever, for he missed Rover sadly.

Father didn't know Rover when he sent to the apples' camp, because they had dried his nice white coat all black. But Hetty knew him when she saw him anywhere. Rover nearly choked himself trying to come to her. When a rough gypsy tried to drive Hetty away Rover jumped at his throat.

There's no telling what might have happened if a policeman had not come just then. He had come to see about something else the gypsies had stolen. So Rover was set free and the gypsies went to jail.

After he had Rover one day after another, and you could see how glad he was by the way his tail wagged. Then, each other more than ever after that.

The Bird Inside.

Lady—What is it, my boy?

Boy—Please, mamma, I come for the reward you've said you'd give to get your cat's back.

Lady—But that is a cat.

Yes, but you'll find the cat's inside the cat.

TALE OF GRANDPA'S CLOCK

A DEAR OLD CLOCK it was. It reached 'way up above Edith's head, and was so wide that she could hardly touch either side with her finger tips. This was how she knew it was growing. Whenever she went to see grandpa, she always ran to the clock to see whether it wasn't easier than last time to stretch from side to side.

As she did this, though, she would whisper, "Please, Mr. Clock, by your leave," for it was such a dignified old clock, with its big solemn face, and its deep, booming chime. In truth, Edith felt just a little afraid of it. Many a time had she listened with open mouth as grandpa told wonderful stories about it.

Edith was again visiting grandpa. Of course, she had first to go to the barn and rub Winnie's nose, and then back to grandpa, because he would get jealous, just like some little girls. Edith knew, though, that grandpa was a good man. After her horse was over, back she came to see grandpa and began, as she always did, to wander all through the big mansion. At last, she stood before the clock.

Somehow, it didn't seem to frown as it usually did. Instead, its face seemed to wear a beaming smile of welcome. Just then she noticed a curious thing. The big door of the clock was ajar—just a wee crack. It is true, but still it was open!

Edith came nearer and nearer. Surely there could be no harm in just peeping. And very likely there were so many wonderful things inside. So she opened the door the least bit further, though she shivered as she did so. But the face above still seemed to look on her so kindly that she grew braver, and, opening it wider, took a good, long look.

Edith felt disappointed. There were the great weights and the immense pendulum and all kinds of wires and wheels, but wherever the clock had struck Edith always fancied that some giant was grumbling; and now there wasn't even a sign of a giant.

Inside there was so much space that she found she could nestle there quite comfortably. Just to see how it felt, she pulled the door to. But it was as dark and gloomy she thought it would be, much nicer once. Oh, dear! the door had stuck, and it wouldn't budge an inch!

Edith was frightened, indeed. She called as loudly as she could and she beat the door with her tiny fists. No one heard her.

Then the clock struck. As the deep tones boomed, it seemed in her very ear, she sank into a corner, too scared to cry any further. The sounds rumbled over so long. She was sure it was the golden whispering, and silver shiver ran down her back. Even the shiver in its very tick seemed to be saying, "We've got—ye—now!—we've got—ye—now!—over and over again."

Could it be that some one was coming?

"Oh, grandpa, grandpa!" Edith cried with all her might.

Grandpa thought at first it was mice, and he opened the door to see. How surprised he was when Edith flung herself sobbing into his arms!

But he soon kissed away the tears, and before long Edith even smiled when he laughed and called her his "little monkey, monkey, monkey, monkey!"

Edith never got very near the old clock now. The old thing just coasted me in, I know, says she, shaking her golden hair.

Her Kind of Doll.

Auntie had promised her a new doll, if she did her lessons well for a whole week. The week passed, and she had earned the doll.

"What kind will you have, dear?" asked Auntie.

"I don't know. I'd soonest have (twice) the clever reply."

HEARING WITH THE TEETH

THIS may seem rather remarkable, but you can hear sounds with the teeth that you cannot even distinguish with the ear.

Try this experiment: Lay a watch face downward on the table. Stand far enough from the table so that you are unable to hear the ticking. Then, with a deal stick, place one end of it on the back of the watch and grip the other in your teeth. Closing the ears with your fingers, you will then plainly hear the tick of the watch.

If the stick is long enough, you may place one end of it on the top of a piano, and with the other between your teeth you can tell the tune that is being played even though you cannot hear a sound in the ordinary way.

HOW THE THICK IS DONE

Always Discontented.

Zeph was an old dandy who suffered continually from the sharp tongue of his wife, Aunt Chloe. Their only pig had been killed, and Zeph announced his intention of buying another. So off he was, followed by the advice of Aunt Chloe.

Later he returned, leading a great, fat porker.

"Well, I reckon you paid some foolish price for that dere pig!" was Chloe's greeting.

No, Zeph said, he hadn't. In fact, he finally confessed that he had stolen it.

"Liar, sucker," complained his wife, much dissatisfied, "couldn't you steal a bigger one than that?"

Couldn't See For the Mountains.

A little boy, but recently returned from a trip to the Alps, was asked how he liked the scenery.

"Oh, I s'pose it's all right," said he, "only there were some mountains that they had evertinged for a sight."

It was bright daylight when he awoke, feeling ever so lull.

While he stood, wondering which way he should go, whom should he see but the wise old woman, "Little Boy?" she asked.

"What's the matter, 'Little Boy?' she asked.

"I'm hungry, and I want to go home, and I'm hungry," he tearfully explained.

"Hungry? Why there's a whole basketful of cherries beside you."

Tom shook his head. "I couldn't eat another cherry if I was to starve. I'm sorry I ate any at all."

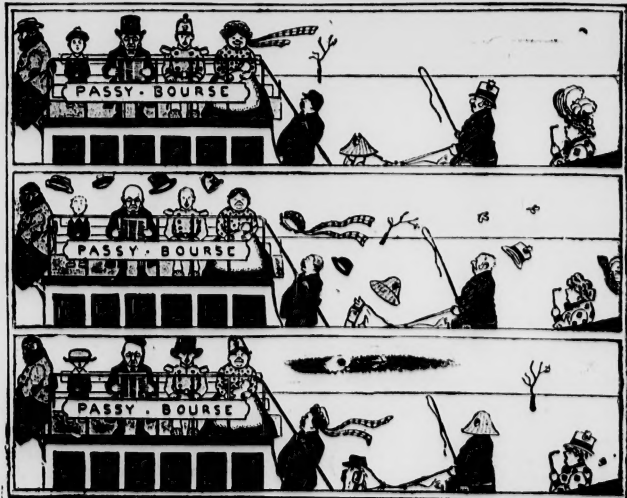

IN A BAD PLIGHT.

All at once, instead of the old woman there stood a beautiful fairy before him. He stared at her for a moment, but he received and to try to rid himself of this fault.

Without another word the fairy changed back into the old woman and led Tom safely home.

A Ratepayers' League has been organized at Edmonton which will interest itself in seeing that only able and honest men get into the city council.

Coun. Maley Resigns.

The council held its regular meeting on Monday night and it certainly was one of the most exciting that has been held for some time, the obstacle being the improvement question, which caused Councillor Maley to hand in his resignation.

All the councillors were present with Mayor Macleod in the chair. A petition signed by a large number of the ratepayers was presented, asking the mayor to proclaim Thursday afternoon, Oct. 24, a civic holiday. Granted.

A communication from Mr. E. W. Woodstock, cancelling the order for the 21,000 debentures was read and filed.

Wood, Donnelly & Co., Toronto, wrote stating that they might be able to sell all the debentures at 98 or 95% but would like an option of a month on same. Granted.

A letter was also read from Mr. Lott about the park matter in which he stated that his company would accept the usual terms of payment—one third of purchase price down and the balance at six and twelve months, at 8 per cent. interest, or they would be willing to spread the future payment at one and two years at 8 per cent. interest. The secretary was instructed to write Mr. Lott that the by-law had to be put before the ratepayers again and if satisfactory to them they would communicate with him again. The park will comprise 26.33 acres.

J. Reed was appointed auditor at a salary of $15 per year.

As the council had heard nothing from Edmonton regarding payment for the town team the clerk was instructed to write them.

It was moved by Coun. Maley seconded by Coun. Shantz that a sidewalk be laid on east Railway street from King Edward street to Waterloo street to connect with the west side of Railway street.

This motion was lost, which led to a long discussion of the financial affairs of the town. The majority of the council felt that as they had been unable to sell the improvement debentures as yet that it would be well to go very slow as there was no money for any more improvements at present.

Councillors Atkins and Leseimer tried to relieve the strained relations with Coun. Maley by moving that the soon as the council have the necessary funds that the sidewalk be built which was carried by a large majority.

The council felt that the east side residents had been waiting long enough for this sidewalk and since they could not get it now he would resign, and quietly laid his resignation on the table to be taken up by the council. This closed the matter for a time.

Licensing shows was the next obstacle in the road to peaceful legislation, and after a lengthy discussion the by-law in this regard was left as before.

The C.P.R. still objects to the town allowing the water on Railway street to drain off through their property and the consequence is the town ditches are wandering about their heads as you go now as it will be an expensive proposition to drain it off by way of north railway street.

The hotels are to be warned that they must comply with the laws by going on time and not allowing gambling on their premises.

The license law was again discussed in relation to farmers peddling meat in small quantities around town. They are to be warned that they must secure a license costing $24 before they can do this, but they are allowed to sell quarters or more without any restrictions.

Several bills and amendments were presented and passed by the council committee. The council then adjourned this most strenuous meeting till next Monday night at 8 o'clock when the next act will be put on.

J. Brubelman of Penfold has just finished threshing 6,000 bushels of grain. He has 1,000 bushels of No. 2 fall wheat.
